

Submitted Internship Report

Company: Bank of Africa

Department: Management Sciences

Period: 2025-05-21 – 2025-07-21

Executive Summary

A story, also known as a narrative or tale, is a sequence of events or experiences, either fictional or non-fictional, that can be shared orally, in writing, or through other media like film. Stories serve various purposes, including entertainment, education, and cultural preservation. They can be short and focused on a single incident or longer, encompassing a complex web of events and characters.

Introduction

A story, also known as a narrative or tale, is a sequence of events or experiences, either fictional or non-fictional, that can be shared orally, in writing, or through other media like film. Stories serve various purposes, including entertainment, education, and cultural preservation. They can be short and focused on a single incident or longer, encompassing a complex web of events and characters.

Profile of the Institution

A story, also known as a narrative or tale, is a sequence of events or experiences, either fictional or non-fictional, that can be shared orally, in writing, or through other media like film. Stories serve various

Export to Word

Export to PDF